

London Mayor Sadiq Khan recognises EWPS for exceptional educational achievements

EWPS has been celebrated under a new programme set up by the Mayor of London, Sadiq Khan, to recognise exceptional schools in the capital. Schools for Success is part of the Mayor's drive to help tackle education inequality and increase standards for all schoolchildren across the capital, whatever their background.

Schools for Success celebrates schools that are achieving academic success with all their pupils, in particular disadvantaged or vulnerable students who started off behind their peers, or those affected by circumstances that could have an impact on their learning. The new programme creates a network for these schools to share best practice with others across London through events, school visits and online profiles. More than 100 eligible schools are invited to join the programme, with 27 boroughs represented at this year's Awards. This cohort, refreshed annually, represents approximately six per cent of the capital's schools.

EWPS has been recognised in the Schools for Success Awards, because of the positive impact the use of Targeted Learning Time has had upon outcomes and progress for all pupils and particularly those most disadvantaged.

The Mayor of London, Sadiq Khan, said: 'Congratulations to EWPS for its outstanding achievements and for the hard work of its pupils and teaching staff. London has some of the best schools in the country, and Schools for Success shows the huge difference good quality teaching can make to pupils who started off behind in their studies. By sharing best practice with other schools across the capital, we can help every young Londoner reach their full potential, and ensure no child is left behind.'

102 schools have been recognised in Schools for Success, the first year of the scheme. They are being asked to share their good practice through seminars and hosting visits to their school so that other schools can learn from their successful approaches.

Confucius Institute & London South Bank University

We were very proud to have been asked to be guest speakers at London Southbank University for the Confucius Institute 10th anniversary celebrations last week. We have been working with the Institute for nearly two years in order to deliver our Mandarin lessons and some of our after school provision such as Tai Chi. It was wonderful to be able to share what a positive impact this work is having on the school and we look forward to this continuing in the future.

Parent Governor Vacancy

Remember if you are considering applying for the position of parent governor you may wish to come and find out a little more about this role and chat to some of our governors at an information meeting this Friday (6th) @ 9 a.m. Closing date for applications is: Monday 9th October.
